THERE is no change as regards the telegraph strike.

THERE were nine hundred and thirty deaths from cholera at Cairo, on Sunday.

THE number of people who lost their lives by the eruption of a volcano on the island of Ischia, is placed at 4,000, with 1,000 injured.

THE Louisville Argus says: A priest at St. Ann's Church, New York, on the 8th of July, preached a sermon against what is termed in that city the "Catholic picnic"—that is to say, the universal free for all who have money to pay their way. The preacher said that at the Synod held in New York, these promiscuous picnics, leading to scandals, were forbidden. This ought to be enough to prevent young men and women attending them. But it is not. He appealed to parents. "Some of you know the shame that has come of these things. The dances—such dances!—in the darkness, for, when the sun sets, there is no light in these excursion boats, except in the bar rooms." He alluded to the results; the knowledge which some of his hearers had of these results, he said, saved him from depicting them. It requires no very great stretch of imagination, and the priest who spoke these plain words against the horrible moonlight excursions, spoke well. Every day barges go out from New York filled with unguarded, thoughtless girls and vicious or weak young men. They afford opportunities and temptations. The consequences many confessors and grief-stricken parents know too well, and many a foolish girl can date the loss of her honor from one of these affairs.

Judge Hargis Withdraws.

The following card, dated the 30th ult., announces Judge Hargis' withdrawal as a candidate for re-election as Judge of the Court of Appeals:

To the People of the First Appellate District: Having, under circumstances not altogether under my control, been announced as a candidate for re-election to the high office which I now hold, I feel that a brief explanation of my present determination is due to the public. Since my announcement as a candidate a propitious opportunity to return to the practice of law has been afforded me, and duty to my family and business affairs, demands that I shall avail myself of it.

That duty is made imperative by financial pressure imposed upon me by others and not by any act of my own. And while I would have been glad to give the best energies of my young manhood to the judiciary of my native State, yet, believing that the great duties of the bench can best be borne by those who are free from troublesome obstacles, which have been thrown across my path, I have concluded, for the purpose of removing those obstacles, voluntarily to retire from a candidacy, hardly begun, and in which I have every assurance and reason to believe that I decline certain success.

But in doing so I follow the dictate of duty to those whose future comfort and happiness are more valuable than official station, and who are dearer to me than life itself. I shall not, however, in the future, be an idle friend of the cause of popular liberty, individual rights and good government, nor unmindful of the many distinguished honors you have conferred upon me. Whenever and wherever your cause may be in peril, my voice, pen and strength will be given to its defense and advancement. I shall cherish with increasing delight the friendship of each and all, the humblest like the greatest, of my excellent and unwavering friends of the district, and hope to maintain, as long as I may live, my personal relations with them, and to come among you whenever duty and opportunity will permit.

When I retire from the bench, I shall, in conjunction with others, open a law office in the city of Frankfort, and one in the city of Louisville, and devote my special attention to cases in the Court of Appeals and the Superior Court. I will also go to any part of the State where my services may be demanded in cases sufficiently important to justify me. I have thus frankly stated the facts which have impelled me to my present course, and trust my action will be approved by my friends and that the people of the district will select a successor of far greater qualifications and merit than I possess. And in conclusion, I must be pardoned for saying that you cannot be too careful in filling this great office which is, to you, the most important in the State. Very respectfully,
Your fellow-citizen,
THOMAS F. HARGIS.
